

WHY ANIMALS HAVE DIFFERENT TEETH

Some animals have teeth that grind and cut. They only eat plants and are called HERBIVORES

Some animals have teeth that stab and tear. They only eat meat and are called CARNIVORES

Other animals have some teeth that cut and grind and some teeth that stab and tear. These animals eat meat and plants and are called OMNIVORES

Below are some of the animals we have at Willowbank Wildlife Reserve. Can you find out which are herbivores, which are carnivores and which are omnivores? If you can see their teeth you might like to draw them - if you can't see them can you imagine what they might be like and draw them?
